The Bonanza Rustler says: The basin ranchoen are all busy gathering up the last of their crops. In all parts potatoes and other like products are reported to have been abundant in yield. One Nowood ranchman dug 12.000 pounds of tubers from about one and a half acres, and thought he was only doing moderately well at that.

Gold in Wyoming.

The Boomerang learns from a party who was recently at Gold Hill that the stamp mill which has been in operation there for some time will shut down there for some time will shut down owing to the fact that they have no quartz out of the claims to keep it going and the miners are too poor to remain at present. Notwithstanding this we notice that the Saratoga papers state that a surprise is awaiting the public from Gold Hill.

A dispatch from Fort Steele says: It has just leaked out that a gold brick valued at $150 was shipped from here to the Denver mint on the 15th. The button was the result of a run of two and a half ton of ore from the Wyoming mine in Gold Hill. The ore was picked up about the dumps by Tom Ryan and run through the old Downey mill. Ryan will continue operations in that section. Already Alex, Lute, Mr. Green and other miners are preparing to return to the deserted camp."—Laramle Boomerang.

Prescribed Ruman Flesh.

A man claiming to be Dr. Hardin, who carries some kin d of a diploma rom some institution in the country has been working up business in Chey ane among consumptives.

Business was dull this morning and he called on a man by the name of Nally and told him he would have to send to Philadelphia for th article he would prescribe. He confided the fact to his pattent that it was human flesh that he wold prescribe in his case.

Some members of the family attempted to purchase some immediately at a drug store in the city and the matter thus became public. It has created a sensation in the city.—Boomerang.

The ranch contains 6.885.27 acres.
The complete details of the sale are not known at this time.

A certain rath cowpuncher, says the A certain rath cowpuncher, says the Bonning Rustler, was recently rushing around the large hot spring on the Big Horn offering to wager $100 that he could jump into it maked and swim across, about forty feet, in the almost beiling waters, but found no one analous to encourage him in his sufci-dal notions.

Lumber Is Badly Needed.

At the rate this state is now de- Heber veloping it is only a question of a Fifteen short time when millions of feet of Richilele short time when millions of feet of good lumber will be an imperative need. The homely leg house will give place to handsome dwellings, and the airy corral with its sky canopy will be superceded by commodious barns, graneries, etc., like in ensiern communicies where primitive institutions have passed away. Bridges of all kinds will have to span our rivers and creeks, and in more ways than we dream of will good lumber in abundance be needed. The moral is plain: If we hope to have it on hand when the day of need comes for ourselves and future generations of Wyominglies, we have got to protect it now from needless destruction. This is a waster worthy of the attention of our law-makers if they desire to protect one of our grandest resources.—Bonanza Rustier.

as the individual owners, was caused Agent, by the last rise of the Clearwater river and carrying away of several hundred rafted down the river during the summer and were being sawed into lumber at Harrington's mill. The river rose over two feet Friday night and early over two feet Friday night and early Saturday morning carried away some thousand logs that had been left on Strannham's bar until needed at the mill. These logs came down with such force that striking the boom that was fasteaed near the mill, it broke and the logs scattered and were carried off by the current. Harrington lost about 300,000 feet, while Elliot, Elmery & Co. probably lost 500,000 feet of lumber logs and 600 cords of wood. Between here and Almota, several hundred logs were picked up by different parties, and for several days it was a profitable business that many participated in. There is unusual sympathy for the owners of the logs, a loss that the town whi feel.—Lewiston Tribume.

New York, Oct 27.—The volume of the business on the stock exchange today was much less than for the past three days, but speculation was steadler and none the less strong. At the opening, a higher range of quotations was established, but the market met with some selling orders. The purchases changed the current of speculation and the market will seen again be on the upward track. About loclock, a heavy tone came over the dealings. Toward the close, the sharp purchasing movement caused a recovery and the limit sales at an advance over yesterilay's closing figures of [402] per cent, in the active list and extending to 6 per cent, in specialties.
